Georgia Special Needs Scholarship

60%

of students benefit from SB10 scholarship annually, on average

What is it
A scholarship from the State of Georgia that helps students with learning differences attend a private school that fits their needs, like Sage.

Who qualifies
Students who spent the last school year in a Georgia public school with an IEP or a qualifying 504 Plan, and whose parent has lived in Georgia for at least a year.

How it works
The state sets an amount for each child and sends it to Sage to go toward tuition. You can look up your child's amount with the state's online calculator.

Georgia Promise Scholarship

$6,500

maximum per year
mygeorgiapromise.org

What is it
A state-funded education account that families can use for private school tuition and other approved education costs.

Who qualifies
Students zoned for a lower-performing Georgia public school who have attended public school for the past two semesters, or who are starting kindergarten.

How it works
You apply online at mygeorgiapromise.org during the state's application windows. Funds arrive in four payments across the school year and can't be combined with SB10 or Apogee scholarships.

Need-based aid from Sage

$7,000

average award

What is it
Tuition help that comes directly from Sage's own funds, set aside so that cost is not what keeps a child from the instruction they need. These funds are made possible by generous donors.

Who qualifies
Any Sage family can apply. Awards are based on your family's financial need.

How it works
You fill out one application in FACTS, a secure outside service that reviews your family's finances. Sage uses that review to decide each award.

Apogee Scholarships

$770,000

awarded to Sage families
Learn about Apogee

What is it
Scholarships paid for by Georgia taxpayers. Through a state tax credit program, people and businesses can send part of their state taxes to Sage instead.

Who qualifies
Students who meet the state's rules for the program and show financial need. Our admissions team can tell you whether your child qualifies.

How it works
Apogee, a state-approved scholarship organization, collects those donations and Sage awards them to families as tuition scholarships.

Help fund a Sage education

Every dollar of Sage's need-based aid comes from donors. Your gift helps a child get the instruction they need, regardless of cost.
